Mary Rofaeil, a third-year associate at Foley & Lardner LLP, is a prominent member of the firm's Bankruptcy & Business Reorganizations Practice Group. Mary is based in the firm's Dallas office.

In her relatively brief yet impactful time at Foley, Mary has proven to be an invaluable asset in assisting with significant debtor cases and secured lender matters. Mary has showcased a remarkable ability to dive headfirst into the intricacies of complex financial disputes, leaving an indelible mark on the outcomes of cases. As Mary continues to make waves within the firm, her trajectory suggests a promising future as a formidable force in the legal landscape of debtor and secured lender matters.

A standout achievement in Mary's career is her noteworthy bankruptcy clerkship with the Honorable Benjamin Kahn at the United States Bankruptcy Court of the Middle District of North Carolina. During her clerkship, she drafted opinions and orders on bankruptcy law and adversary proceeding matters and assisted in preparation for hearings. This experience under the guidance of Judge Kahn significantly enhanced her legal skills and deepened her insight into the intricate world of bankruptcy law and financial restructuring. Mary's ability to navigate the complexities of legal cases, developed during her clerkship, underscores her dedication to providing top-notch legal services.
